I am a retired Chemical Engineer with extensive experience in pollution control.

I am appalled with the comments -- unscientific about this project.

I truly hope that science prevails.

Replacing simple chicken waste composting with biodigestion is great for the environment and will reduce the need to drill for more nat. gas (methane).

Our country is way behind Europe in the use of this proven technology.

I cannot fathom how so-called environmentalists see this project as being negative to the community and our environment.

Sincerely,

Malcolm Goekler
