Please reconsider this law. I don't feel it's fair to force people to buy more expensive cars that are unreliable. When those batteries go out, they are thousands of dollars to replace. This is money that a lot of citizens do not have and will put a hardship on people. Plus, Delaware does not have infrastructure to support electric vehicles. Home charging stations would cause a financial burden on citizens as well to install and what will it do to their electric bills? Please reconsider this action.
