We are a capitalistic society, EV should not be forced on people, we should have progress to hybrid car while slowly adding EVs as a third option not primary. There are studies out there that show mining for the minerals for batteries and properly disposing of the expired batteries is just as harmful or worse for the environment. Why don't you private jets first since they produce more carbon and force the rich elites to fly commercial. Let the market determine where we go, stop allowing China to push these regulations when they are the world's number 1 polluter and by forcing the USA to support the green initiatives is transferring our money to strengthen China. This needs to stop and we need to take care of US citizens first not make us last because our forefathers were successful. We need to bring others up not teardown America.
