Hi, As a 68 year old American I am totally against this proposed mandate towards electric cars. We as Americans are supposed to be a free and protected society from this sort of government mandate. Our free market society will allow those who wish to own an electric vehicle to do so as they see fit, not forced into it. Our electric grid is nowhere near having the capacity to fuel and power thousand/ millions more electric vehicles in a few years time. I am also well aware that electricity has to be produced from coal, gas, solar and wind and this country is far from adding electric powered cars to that electric grid without major shortfalls. I repeat, I am totally against this mandate.
