I am opposed to electric car mandate. This is a bad idea that should be stopped. Have the people who thought of this idea ever taken a energy management course at DTCC or anywhere else? One problem is that older homes will have to be upgraded for more circuits and possibly higher amperage service at a cost of at least $1500. Also, the extra cost of an electric car does not make it affordable for most people and electric companies would have to burn more natural gas and coal to provide the extra electricity. Clean energy has its place in the energy mix but now is not that time. The battery technology is not there yet nor is wind or solar.
