I oppose any laws that take away my choice of energy I choose to spend money on. I don't want to be forced to go solar or be told that I must tap into the city water even if I have a well.

These choices are up to the individual tax payer as to what means they choose to power their lives.

Please don't force people to do what naturally seems the way we are flowing. The more manufactures that put out electric vehicles and much more affordable versions they will soon be making, will sway the public opinion in time. Forcing a regulation like this just puts a negative push on an issue that's not needed nor helpful.
