We have the right to decide the type of vehicle that meets our needs without the state mandating EV's because of the clean air act. Looking at the state of California I cannot imagine wanting to incorporate any of their laws. There may be a time in the future when EV's are useful but it is not now. No government agency should have the right to decide what type of vehicle we purchase even though it is manipulated by the government with the price of gas and vehicle..I live in a rural area and EV.'s will not meet my needs.
