Why do you people hate firefighters ? Most engines don't carry enough water to put out a car fire when it's electric and the device that's been developed to cool down a battery is almost 30k And the battery powered vehicle not insured easily due to the cost of the batteries. since they cost as much as 1/2 the cost of the car or truck and the toxic gas given off just during normal operation let alone the batteries that are on fire are more than any gas car or truck. You can't tow the battery car since it recharges the batteries to rekindle the fire ? I ask again why do you hate firefighters? These vehicles need to have more development on them before the are put in service ,for day-to-day use they cause fires and burn down homes! And cause people to lose homeowner coverage! Why are you pushing these dangerous vehicles? When the technology is not there yet?
