I'm not going to comment on the facts about the pollution associated with electric vehicles. It a known fact that our government continually ignores that EVs are not the "clean vehicles" that they are presented to be. The issue for me is that we Delawareans never voted on The Electric Car Mandate. We obviously don't want a law on what car we can buy but our government is ignoring us because they "feel" they are more intelligent that us. They are not! It is simply un American in the way that we are being treated. We have turned into a dictatorship here in Delaware, with this topic. We are hearing of bans on stoves, washing machines, light bulbs and now trucks and cars. If this law goes into effect, time to move.
