What are you people thinking? How on earth could a senior citizen on a fixed income pay for an electric car? Where are the charging stations? How much will it cost to charge? Who will work on these vehicles when there is a problem? This whole "do what California" does is for the birds. Doing what California does did not work in Education so what makes you think it will work in this program? In case I need to spell it out for you I am totally against the state mandating what I drive. From here it will be what I wear, what I eat and of course what I do!
