I am reaching out as a Delaware resident and I am 100% against this movement to Electric Vehicles. Our power grid cannot handle the additional load and to ask homeowners to add these charging stations to homes is a huge expense that I will not take on. Also what about those in the city who will pay for these stations. Honestly Delaware does some really stupid things in my opinion however this is one of the worst. If Delaware does this we will be leaving I am not going to be forced to buy any car just because the Government says nor will I pay the extra taxes that the residents will have to pay to build the infrastructure. As of today this is still America and we are free to buy what we want when we want. I do not support this effort
