I am opposed to the EV Mandate. Delaware does not have the infrastructure to support electric vehicles. We are already buying electricity from other states. The grid would require millions in investment to avoid blackouts and the like. There is no need for mandating electric vehicles as emissions are in compliance in Delaware. California is already having to caution no charging of vehicles during high demand. There are no charging stations that will need to be available to recharge after only 200 miles. Also, China has a monopoly on the batteries. The risk of fire is too great. This mandate is all about control, not the environment. The majority of Delawareans DO NOT SUPPORT electric vehicles and CANNOT afford them. I cannot even imagine what electric will be. Stop the nonsense. America is supposed to be free choice!
