I do not support this program. EV is not affordable for everyone. Middle class workers and lower class workers struggle everyday with finances and to add an EV that costs more than the average annual income is not realistic. Also, the battery for an EV is costly. If someone that is struggling financially has an EV and the battery needs to be replaced, how will they be able to pay for the services to install the battery? Who would we be able to ask for assistance to get a new battery? Again this program is not realistic and is not keeping the people that cannot afford an EV in mind.
