First of all, I have nothing against EV's. But I do have a major problem with DNREC trying to mandate me to buy one ever. Has anyone in this department, who should have nothing to do with this mandate, thought anything about how this could possibly work. What about people who have no garage, they're going to plus these EV's in in rain storms. The electric grids are already stressed in the summer. How apartment buildings, are they going to have a plug for each dweller. The problems go on and on. NO to any EV mandate. And following CA on such a thing, what a joke.
