I feel that this is a very restrictive and invasive plan. while I support many environmental efforts the current law you propose is to restrictive. Just by banning gas powered vehicles you are restricting the ability to own a vehicle which is basically wrong. The current price of an EV is way above affordability for most residents of Delaware in todays market and there is no indication of the price being lowered. I am on a fixed income as are many people in Delaware and this would prevent me/us from buying a vehicle. Do not forget that even with the tax deduction available many of us fall under the the income limit that is required to pay taxes to the Federal government which prevents me/us the ability to take advantage of this program. Please do not allow yourselves to be swayed by the people in California or the current political climate just for the sake of going with the flow. You should be more concerned with building the charging stations being built and the cost of using the service. Just look at CA now and all the problems that are showing up. Do not be a follower but a leader.
