Comment / Question: I am so opposed to the ev mandates. Call me I can go on at length for all of my reasons not to. To begin with 65+% of the population can not afford one as is the current situation. No matter what the USA does our mark on the issue is nil till India and China begin to sincerely change their ways. I can't believe what you all are proposing. I have not talked to one person who hasn't concurred with my concerns and questions. It is one big power grab by a bunch of government employees. I remain nonplussed. J. O. Marshall III
