Hello, I am AGAINST the DNREC plan to transition to electric cars in Delaware. It's not that the eventual transitioning to electric cars (and other vehicles) is a bad idea, it's that (1) a non-elected body (DNREC) is pushing this, without representing the will of the people through an election and/or elected officials, and (2) it's unconstitutional, at least in the sense that the government, or it's proxies, cannot force citizens to buy a particular product. It's wrong for DNREC to be pushing this electric car plan on the people of Delaware! Thank you. David Eden Lewes, Delaware
