I am firmly against imposing a mandate to force everyone in this, or any other state, to purchase anything, let alone a car of a particular sort. It is not only unconstitutional, it is outrageous and unfair to everyone. I oppose electric vehicles for the following reasons: -I will not afford a charging system installed in my garage. -Electric vehicles are not reliable means of long distance transport because of their need for frequent charging stations that do not yet exist and will cost even more to implement. - They are too costly to produce and to purchase by most. - They are much more hazardous to the environment, due to their inability to have their batteries recycled. - They are more hazardous to drive, if caught in flood conditions or accidents. -The batteries alone weigh 3000 lbs. -Mining for cobalt and other battery elements is in the purview of an enemy of the U.S. namely China and they are enslaving poor African children to work in those mines in Africa. -There are many more reasons, but I conclude with the fact that my version of the U.S. Constitution gives citizens the CHOICE to purchase the goods they need and want, only Communism forces its "enslaved" vassals to do its bidding!
