Following CA defies common sense. Who can afford such a vehicle? If they can & do what happens when electricity is not available such as in extremely hot weather when we are told to conserve electricity or when power runs out in the vehicle because of being in a traffic jam? Charging stations take time to use & aren't all the same.

I do believe this is something to work toward GRADUALLY but much needs to be done before it being required. We are NOT CA. We are DE. Let us use common sense & approach this matter in a sensible & organized manner.
