I would like to know who in the right mind wants every vehicle to be electric. I am a contractor for mayor gas companies. Our machines run on diesel fuel. All of our truck that haul the machines run on diesel fuel. Nobody in the right frame of mind can say electric vehicles are going to make this world any better. If anything it's going to make it worse. If you lose power to your house and have a back up generator what does generator run on.... gasoline diesel fuel natural gas or propane. What are all the farmers in this world going to do? When people start getting mad because you don't have food to eat it's because you all want everything to be electric. Is the government going to put a charging in every field. No!! Electric vehicles are not the answer. If people want to have electric vehicles that's great but the people that don't want them leave us alone.
