We who live in Delaware do worry about the health of our planet and its inhabitants. But the little State of Delaware, and even the totality of the other 49 states, cannot solve the world's environmental problems by our actions.

Until China and India stop having virtually ALL of their electricity provided by Coal-powered utility plants, the pollution of the planet will continue unabated.

The ruah to mandate that ALL our vehicles be powered by batteries CANNOT be handled by our Electric Utility companies throughout the USA. And the proliferation of depleted batteries will lead to an environmental disaster if ALL vehicles were electric.

We are totally AGAINST the proposal that DNREC is proposing.
