To Whom It May Concern:

To place such a mandate on Delaware's residents is completely unacceptable. The cost of these vehicles is out of reach for many families. To prohibit the sale or registration of gas or diesel vehicles makes it impossible for people who cannot afford to buy them as they are less expensive to purchase. Better technology allows these vehicles to run as efficiently or better than Electric Vehicles. The lack of charging stations throughout the area as well as in the rural areas presents a hardship as well. Home charging stations costs are out of reach for many residents of all ages and especially low income households and fixed income households as well.
