I am not in favor of the government mandating everyone to use EV cars and trucks. I feel the free market should be allowed to work. As EV vehicles get better and charging options become easier and better more people will switch. Delaware also needs to work on the power grid and where we get our electric power from. Burning more Coal and Oil to charge EVs makes no sense at all. For me personally, I do lots of Long highway trips up and down the east Coast, at this time charging stations are not all that available. especially in remote areas. This will make having an electric car difficult. Please don't mandate something not everyone is ready for. I am all in favor of doing more for helping the environment and reducing our carbon footprint, but EVs are not the only answer.
