Comments:

DNREC needs to look at Delaware's car market instead of trying to copy/paste another big state's car market regulation program. The plan they propose ignores individual concerns, business needs, high battery costs, lack of rural charging stations and limited range of EVs. Their market forecasts are predictions. Markets fluctuate, and then their forecast is obsolete. Delaware tax payers do not need another costly "one size fits all" program when consumers and their choices will work better than any forecast.
