I believe you should try economic incentives rather than government mandates. I am personally against this situation. The ability of the state to install enough charging stations to make possible is highly unlikely. This state has enough problems with maintaining itself. Why add more? I personally will not be able to afford a new electric car due to my low income. So who is going to pay for the state to transport those who cannot. Think about it long and hard because people really don't like to be told what to do!!!
