Why oh why does Delaware want to follow anything that California has done?!?!? California notoriously has brown outs and black outs due to not having enough electric to power their grid and Delaware wants to emulate them?!? REDICULOUS! And once all these EV batteries start going bad how do you plan on disposing of them? Landfills that are already full to capacity? That will really help the the environment. Please use your heads before passing this bill that will do nothing for our earth! Think past your wallet!
