As two senior citizens living in DE for 10+ years, we find it deplorable how the government wants to mandate everything the public does. As seniors we have watched the evolution of many products such as radios, television, cellphones, computers, and hybrid vehicles. Each of these products came upon without mandatory rules or time restrictions. Electric vehicles may be the change in the future, but should never be pushed on the American people. When the time is right each person can decide when it would be economically best for them. Mandatory as the rule will destroy this state. Economy is making it hard already and to have to purchase an EV which you cannot afford to, seems like a punishment for living in a state becoming a socialistic arena. Please DONOT mandate EV's. Let the people decide and evolve in time. Thank you, Ann and Jeff Witt
