I am adamantly opposed to your proposed mandate for Delawareans to purchase electric vehicles.

Electric vehicles are not safe. They often catch on fire which can not easily be put out.

Batteries are not easily attainable and hard to safely throw away when need to be replaced.

Electric vehicles are not compatible for long trips. Charging stations are not always available and take time.

Electric vehicles are expensive.

Mandating these electric vehicles is an infringement of my personal freedom to choose.

No, mandating electric vehicles is not wise, logical, or constitutional.

Sincerely,
Ellen K Forbes
