There is no way this mandate should go into effect. The United States does not have the Capacity to keep the electricity on without a bunch of vehicles needing charging. This is all a big lie because the electric vehicles are not better for the environment, the amount of carbon damage done to the environment way higher making the electric vehicles. This is a move that strengthens China and weakens the US. Just like Solar we need to improve it before totally moving to it. This feels way more like a control issue than anything. You should not be allowed to vote for this if you use any fossil fuels now. We deserve the right to choose, this is not going to save the world.
