Why do we want to be the California (a failed state) of the East Coast. We don't have the infrastructure or the electrical grid to support EV's. If you look into the process of creating the batteries you will see it causes more pollution than gas powered engines and relies too much on China for their manufacturing. And how do we dispose of the batteries once they die? And who can afford $20,000 for a replacement battery? We (the Country) are not prepared for mass production of EV's.
