I am against being forced to purchase an EV. Lithium mining which is required is environmentally harmful. These vehicles are more expensive also replacing the batteries are very expensive. I feel if you decide to purchase a EV then fine but these things should not be forced on everyone. You can't travel as far and they are an inconvenience. What happens if you live in a condo or apartments? The expense to put charging stations in is expensive too. Where are all of the batteries going to be disposed of?
