Good Morning,

I would like to express my concern for the implementation of the electric vehicle mandate. I believe that mandates have no part of our society in the Free United States of America. We have the God given right to make our own choices that work well for our families, budgets and communities.

We have come such a long way from the invention of the very first car, we get our cars inspected and they go through an emissions inspection here in Delaware as well as most states. I would like to think that these tests are improved upon every year making them more efficient year after year.

We are the second smallest state and should in no way be compared with California who has thousands of more people, more cars and more smog than our little state could ever have.

Most Americans would like to do their part in saving our planet, but we must have choices, not an ultimatum.

I believe we as taxpayers should have a say and a vote in matters that affect us. Many have said that we don't have the infrastructure in place to support hundreds of electric cars. An alternative could be Hybrids.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.
