I am a lifelong Delaware resident. I disagree with a mandate requiring electric vehicles. The demand for electricity that such a sweeping change would create, and the undeniable strains that would be placed on our power infrastructures, are disturbing. The repercussions aren't being fully considered. There are many ways to help safeguard the environment, and people contribute in different ways. Anyone who wants (and can afford) to drive an electric car is certainly free to do so — but it should not be a ~requirement~ for all.

Thank you.
