I believe the EV Mandate is very short sighted and impractical. I live in a condo. There's no space to install a plug in. What if a vehicle is stuck in beach traffic for hours, not unusual, and dies? The electrical grid we have now is not sufficient. How will adding all those vehicles work? It won't. What about disposing all those batteries composed of rare elements? Why not wait until batteries are better and more safely constructed? Surely they will be. What's the rush?! I am totally against this!
