Our state and country is not ready for nor should any type of mandate of any product be placed on a free society. Our electrical grid is not prepared for the power that would be required for a EV mandate. Our population is also not financially prepared or capable of purchasing EV's. EV's May save on Carbon emissions but the effect on the environment made but the carbons put out to produce the electricity will out pace the carbons made by regular gasoline vehicles. There is also the issue with what to do with the lithium after the batteries are dead and the face we would be at the mercy of the countries producing lithium. Myself my family and my friends all say NO to an EV mandate.
