Comments:

Local government officials in Rehoboth, Dewey and Bethany should not be allowed to make decisions like this. The State of Delaware (DNREC) has a legal and fiduciary obligation to deny permits for this project. It is a Maryland project. It does not benefit Delaware citizens, and Delawareans should not have to subsidize and support it by allowing US Wind's infrastructure to go through, over or under Delaware lands. Maryland should have to deal with the land requirements. The fact that their coastal areas won't allow it speaks volumes. Finally, if the feds think the project is so great, let the cables make landfall on Assateague Island or some other federal parklands.
