Comments:

It appears that this wind project is being mandated by the federal government and Delaware is complying without proper cost-benefit considerations. What is the business model for realizing a return on the project? Other wind projects have failed because of a poor business model. Who is backing the investment? Green energy makes sense only when the public is not saddled with rising costs (fees) and inferior service levels. Government dictating market needs always fails. I vote to abandon this project as New Jersey has.
