Subject: RE: Windfarm

DNREC,

I have the following questions

1. Is there a chance we can do a windfarm on land, instead of one in the ocean?
My concerns are the disruption to the ocean life with the preliminary studies/tests.
There were 11-13 whales found dead on the eastern shore after the last "study".
2. Are we going to get all the promised money up front in an escrow account?
All the special projects promise money, jobs, etc and rarely deliver either.
The Bloom project comes to mind. We're still paying a surplus on our bills for this "clean energy" project.
What a hoax!
3. What will happen to the used blades on the turbines that aren't recyclable?

I hope this project delivers everything it's promised and more.

I hear the Who's "Won't get fooled again" playing!

Sorry to be so skeptic, but every time we've been promised savings, jobs and money the projects fail to deliver.

Thank you,
Michael O'Connor
