I am sorry I have put so many comments in, but I just need to remind the people who are taking this tank situation into consideration that this whole project started when a walkway was proposed from Yorklyn to Hockessin. The people who proposed it were the people who are building these homes, and the only reason they were allowed to propose these homes was because of the walkway, which was denied through the county because there was no room to put a walkway safely near Yorklyn Road or the train tracks. That being said, they have done the same thing again and have not researched the sewage situation and now they're just trying to patch the things that they have screwed up and it is totally unacceptable. They will keep trying to patch things as they go. I guess once you get your foot in the door, you can just keep pushing and the state of Delaware will just turn her head and let you in. That's not acceptable. They need to do things. I have no problem with doing things the right way they need to do it the right way and legally and with the public knowledge, and then put from the public they have not done that thus far.
