The failure to build a pump house for the proposed development of Quarry Walk is not the problem of the residents of Yorklyn, nor is it the problem of the wildlife and old growth forests in the surrounding area. Allowing the installation of 18,000 gallons of sewage holding tanks would be rewarding the negligence of the developer. At no point was it ever the county's responsibility to build a pump house for this development, and the fact that you are allowing Cattermole's company to attempt to shift the blame onto the county for his lack of foresight is, quite frankly, a pathetic disservice to the people who live in Yorklyn and would have to deal with the smell of sewage being pumped and the toll that the vehicles required to pump waste would take on our main road.
