I am citing my reasons to oppose the proposed temporary tanks at Quarry walk. There are too many questions that have been unanswered, and no matter the answer is, it could have negative consequences to the residences along Yorklyn Road. Who will oversee the placement, pumping, and maintenance? Where are the funds coming from for the fees needed for these tanks? Who is paying for the wear and tear to the area roadways due to the increased and constant truck traffic. What if builder goes bankrupt who pays to continue the process or have them removed? What about ecological concerns of leaking tanks and trucks? It was stated there was a plan, but what happens if there is an issue with leakage and contamination? Who is paying the damages to the property owners down stream from the tanks? What are the health risks in event there is contamination of the underlying aquifer that Artesian water uses to supply water to businesses and homes in a large area, as well as those of us who draw water directly from the Cockeyville Aquifer? There is no reason why this development shouldn't have to wait until all sewer protocols are in place, since there are too many unanswered questions and concerns.
