Allowing only fishers to drive on the beach while restricting access for non-fishers creates an unfair imbalance in the use of public lands. Beaches are shared public resources funded and maintained for the benefit of all citizens, not just one user group. While fishing access is important, granting vehicle privileges exclusively to fishers limits opportunities for families, seniors, individuals with mobility challenges, and other beachgoers who wish to enjoy the shoreline. A more equitable approach would provide reasonable vehicle access for both fishers and non-fishers while protecting the environment and preserving public safety.
