Is DNREC and our legislators building a process for disposal of waste EV batteries for Delaware?

Are there any thoughts on education for owners regarding the process of handling and prevention of vehicle fires from EV batteries?

Will there be State support for the many volunteer fire companies who already struggle with responder membership?

Are there any thoughts on guidance for home owners regarding proper/safe storage of their EV?

Are there any studies on the insurance costs for owners of EVs?

Are there infrastructure plans for EV charging sites which support the rural areas off of the visitor grid? (Kent and Sussex Counties have a lot of small communities off the visitor grid areas).

My hope would be that "everyone" can be a participant. Taking away choices is not always the best way to achieve great goals. This will take careful planning and wise choices for lawmakers and public servants. Please plan well and take the time to provide great, affordable, choices for "everyone's" transportation needs.

Thank you for your service to our State.
