I am writing to express my displeasure and disbelief that the state of Delaware is considering banning gas and diesel powered vehicles. This is more government overreach and seems like DNREC is trying to push us to be more like California; which seems like a poor idea considering the condition of that state. This proposal will adversely affect people who are less fortunate and can't afford a $100k electric vehicle much less two like most families have . More government subsidies to offset electric vehicle costs is not the answer and will only lead to more deficits and inflation. I am not anti electric vehicle and I do think that they are the future but this proposal seems to be grandstanding and more limiting of citizens freedom
