Unrealistic

John McGurk <mcgurkj@hotmail.com>

Thu 12/15/2022 6:43 PM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

Good luck with banning combustion engines by 2035. Look into the environmental destruction that occurs with the collection of raw materials in the creation of batteries. Plus, where does electricity come from —- nukes, coal, natural gas. This is a sham and has nothing to do with the environment but rather wealth redistribution. The power grid cannot support demands now and you people want to create additional stress on that house of cards?!
Stop the nonsense! California is destroying its economy and ecosystems. You people think the average person can afford a $60k electric car?

John McGurk

Sent from my iPhone