DenRec

Joe McHugh <mchughj208@gmail.com>

Thu 12/15/2022 4:51 PM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

It is believed and well presented by leading scientists that if the USA stops all use of fossil fuel the net improvement to the environment would be minimal since our emissions are very low and far cleaner than many other countries that include China, India, Russia. The countries that'll still use far dirtier oil with less filtration and would still pour out impurities by great measures. There is no indication these countries will consider changes to their methods. They seek a fall guy.

The World is trying to extract all they can from the USA. Logic and factual science still have a large role to impact concerns and the expense must be shared. Collect accurate data.

Use intelligence, talent, science and sincerity to tally up accurate facts first. Until then shots in the dark improve nothing and only harm the USA.