I do not believe the State of Delaware should adopt ANY proposals from California. I do not believe the power grid can sustain the demand for electricity for our homes and industry now without the added requirements of all the transportation vehicles added as a result of this idiotic proposal. We should also be concerned about the energy and waste in mining the elements necessary to produce all the batteries that will be needed to power the electric vehicles. What do we do with dead batteries at the end of their life cycle. What will be the cost to replace them and the cost of disposal? Where is the scientific evidence that all this nonsense will "save the planet"? How much of our economy will be surrendered to make China even richer than they are today?
Thank you for your interest in this critical matter.
