(No subject)

Aaron Mitchell <aaron.m21352@gmail.com>

Thu 12/15/2022 7:33 PM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

Let's start with California is the worst state when it comes to saving the environment. Taking into consideration that most delawarians buy used cars which would consist of gas engins. Most people can't afford electric cars of which I am against. Items needed for the batteries are mined which is bad for the environment. Not to mention it is mined by kids and slaves. The use electricity, which is in most part made by fossil fuels. Drives the demand up for electricity, which drives the price up. Because electricity is priced by supply and demand. Your not helping the environment at all. Just someone else is getting rich off of it. You want to help Delaware stop letting these idiots move and build houses here from other states. They are killing our environment but cutting down forest to make developments. Poor animals have no where to live.