Not sure why little Delaware needs California Standards, are we just virtue signaling?
If you really want my opinion, listen up;
You (Delaware Government in general) should be concerned about the coming autonomous vehicle era, not what people are driving today. When that occurs, your 'Standards' will be moot, because people will not even own cars for the most part.
DNREC is over reaching its duty anyway, trying to tell us Citizens what vehicle we are allowed to own.
So, back off! Us voters will only take so much.
