2035 electric car

Fred Winward <fredwinward@msn.com>

Thu 12/15/2022 12:18 PM

To: Krall, Kyle (DNREC) <Kyle.Krall@delaware.gov>

Absolutely absurd! What are large companies like AP Croll, George Lynch, Melvin Joseph and Bunting and Murray going to do? How many diesel vehicles are going to be put out of service just because DMV will be requiring emissions in 23 with trucks not designed for it. I have all diesel vehicles and equipment for my landscaping company and highly unlikely they will pass, one as old as 95 but runs just fine. As if its not hard enough to make it work these new regulations are going to have major impacts on any company regardless of size! Look, if somebody wants an electric car than by all means go get it but to make it mandatory is utterly ridiculous. How bout school buses, garbage trucks, are you kidding me? The ramifications will be catastrophic!! There's farmers using trucks past down for generations to haul crops to mills, what about them? Screw em? Pathetic what is going on in this world! My poor grandkids!!

Sent from Mail for Windows